Stylistic Device	Sentence Frames – When discussing the reason why the author has used the stylistic device, consider the whole SCENE and not just the line you have quoted.
Personification giving human or living qualities to objects, animals or anything else not human or alive	Author's name/name of speaker is personifying Describing (name of object, animal. idea, etc. here) as having qualities like and make it appear as if is human / alive. The word " "brings to mind and only people / living creatures The author's intention in doing this is to suggest
Hyperbole a huge exaggeration	Here (the author / the narrator/ name of speaker) exaggerates In reality  The purpose is to (be sarcastic, show an irony, emphasize a truth, express the humor around a truly awful thing, point out an absurdity, create shock, etc.) about / that
Metaphor & Simile – both are comparisons between two seemingly unlike things but similes use like or as	Name of author/speaker makes the unlikely comparison of with Even though they seem very different, both The speaker makes this comparison to imply that
Symbol an object, animal, plant, setting, color, etc. that represents something else	Name of object, animal, event, place, action, etc. is a symbol for They are similar in that both By using this symbol, Author's last name is trying to suggest
Diction: Word Choice & Connotations  ideas and images that come to mind that most people associate with a specific word	In this passage, word "" brings to mind  The author also uses the word "" which is associated with  Even though it is not stated, these words help to suggest
Imagery & Sensory Language  Language that appeals to our sense of smell, sound, sight, touch or taste	The (author/speaker) uses words like "" and "" to describe the smell/image/sound/taste/sensation of The word "" brings to mind and "" makes us think of is described in such a/an (add an adjective like cold, negative, grotesque, delicious, beautiful, ferocious, innocent, violent, monstrous, shocking, horrific, helpless, compassionate, childlike, powerless, powerful, tragic, worthless, cleansing, rejuvenating, oppressive, etc.) way to show the reader
Contrasting Language / Opposites	The words "" and "" are opposites. The word ""means and brings to mind On the other hand, ""means, which reminds us of  The author uses contrasting language to show (it is better to than to because, the difference between and is, even though it is possible to, we often want/think but in reality, on the surface it appears that but in reality, the irony of is that, that one would expect but the truth is, we might expect that yet).

Absolutes words that indicate no exception (always, never, only, none, all, everyone, etc.)	The author/speaker uses the absolute ( always, never, only, none, all, nothing, must, everyone, etc. ) in order to create a feeling of (urgency, permanence, certainty, unity, isolation, loneliness, hopelessness, emptiness, etc. ). The intent of the author/speaker is to show that
	Name of speaker repeats the phrase " " to (warn _ encourage
Repetition of words, ideas or images	convince, reassure, indicate concern, anxiety or paranoia, express an act of determination, etc.) about  The reason for this is The effect is to show (on those listening/ on the audience) is TIP: Sometimes repetition is designed to show something about the speaker or situation (more typical in novels). In informational or expository text (speeches, etc.) repetition is used more to make a point about the consequences if we don't listen.
Short Sentences	The shortness of this sentence makes the speaker sound (severe, commanding, childlike, urgent, physically weak, tired, hopeless, angry, emotionless, etc.). The cause of why the author / Name of Speaker speaks this way is that The author/name of speaker is trying to make the point that
Ellipsis The ellipsis () indicates an omission of words usually because the speaker trails off or pauses.	The reason identify speaker ( trails off / pauses ) is to indicate (an unwillingness to reveal his/her thoughts, a disturbing realization, confusion, disapproval, hesitation, his/her inability to continue speaking, dismay / sadness, etc.) . The cause of this is
Punctuation used in an unusual way (beyond just following the rules of grammar)	The author's unique use of(an exclamation point, dashes, a comma after the word, commas around the word/phrase, a colon after the word, parenthesis around the phrase, italics, quotation marks around the word, no punctuation, grammatically incorrect punctuation, etc.) is designed to
Allusions An indirect reference in a text to a well-known person, place, event or another text	The phrase/words "" tell the reader this is an allusion to (the historical event of, Hitler, Stalin, Shakespeare, The Bible, The Constitution, The Declaration of Independence, The Emancipation Proclamation, a famous speech by Name of Speaker, etc.). The reason the speaker is making this allusion is to (remind the reader, to prove, to see the similarity between and, to show that).
Rhetorical Questions Questions that are not meant to be responded to because the answer is implied	The speaker's tone is					